Education Complete Man

*Dear Mr. [illegible]
I have been thinking of you and your work for some time and I am sure that you are doing a great deal of good in the world. I am sure that you are a true man of character and I am sure that you are a true man of education.*

My Dear Kent,

How do you like the way I started out? Well seeing as you wrote in my T-rumpet twice I suppose I had better make this quite long. Remember all the fun in Religion with Nells. I guess we really kept him a going. Poor guy some times I even feel sorry for him. (ha! ha!) Oh, Remember our big discussions with him. I just love to disagree with everything he says. Don't forget Home Room & the sweet little teachers we have. Well Best of luck in the future. Have fun this summer but be good. I know that will be hard but try anyway.

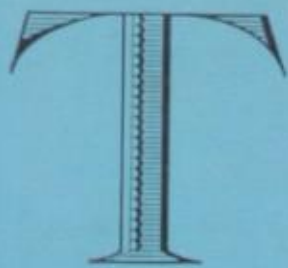

Best of Luck

Dear Kent,

Well your working now its about time you quit loafing and do something. We sure had some good times in religion class. I should have saved all those notes you wrote me. Some of them were pretty good I still don't know why you figure me out to be a bad girl for I really am a good girl as some people can tell you. To bad I didn't have you in more classes we sure could have raised a great deal of dust. Well Kent I doubt if I'll see you anymore. So loads of luck in the future and I hope you graduate from the dime store. Nancy & I

Foreword

The purpose of Catholic education is to help man to secure his ultimate goal — the possession of God in eternity. It aids him to achieve the purpose of this life through the knowledge, love, and service of his Creator. The high school, as a formal means of Christian education, seeks to direct all to Him Who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life; to teach His message of love; and to encourage the practice of the virtue of religion. Its principles are born in eternity. The Scriptures and tradition are its human expression.

Commissioned by Christ to teach the Word of God, the Church has established the Catholic school system to serve this end. Pope Pius XI emphasized its importance in his encyclical, "The Christian Education of Youth." The Hierarchy of the United States reiterated this principle in a recent document, "The Child: A Citizen of Two Worlds." The theme of the bishop's statement is that man, while of this world, owes his highest allegiance to the kingdom of God and must be instructed accordingly. That instruction is the objective of Christian education.

School, a society in miniature, is the students' testing ground for later years. The student in school today is in the training school of life. Christian education aims to impart to the student the wisdom to use his knowledge and skills in God's service and thus to work out his salvation.

The Mother of God is patroness of Christian education as of all human endeavors in the interests of her Divine Son's mission. She is the Woman who in wisdom responded to divine grace. It is Mary, our model, the Seat of Wisdom, who encourages us to follow the steady light of truth.

These are the patterns from which the '51 "Trumpet" staff has selected the theme, "Catholic Education Makes the Complete Man."

Dear Kent,
Always Remember "The Pasture"
and our scene. What a scene!
Remember that battle.

DEDICATION

The Reverend Charles A. Blecha

RELIGION INSTRUCTOR AND ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

"Not by bread alone does man live, but by every word that comes forth from the mouth of God." This truth has long inspired Christian education and Christian educators.

One of these educators is the Reverend Charles Blecha. His six years of service at Aquinas were spent in propagating that word and in serving in the capacity of athletic director. To him the senior class, in appreciation, dedicates "The '51 Trumpet."

APPRECIATION

BISHOP OF THE DIOCESE OF LA CROSSE, WISCONSIN

In setting a fine example of leadership — Catholic leadership — our beloved Bishop is placed on intimate terms with the life and learning of Aquinas High School. Ever as a staunch supporter of our school, our Bishop, through his untiring efforts in our behalf, has done and is doing, much to shape Aquinas into the worthy institution we know it to be today.

As the Good Shepherd of his flock, Bishop Treacy leads in Catholic education.

God love
you
J. Kunding

The Very Reverend Joseph F. Kunding

HEADMASTER, AQUINAS HIGH SCHOOL

Our headmaster is a priest of God who devotes his energies and talents to the service of youth.

He is not a general, yet he leads an army of souls. He does not create masterpieces of art, yet he daily calls to earth the Lord of Glory. He does not write books; his life IS a book of virtue. He has not great wealth, but he has a heart of gold for the souls under his charge. He is never hailed as a king, yet he rules the heart of each and every Aquinite.

The Very Reverend Msgr. Thomas J. Halloran

DIOCESAN SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

As an educator, Msgr. Halloran has been guided in his administration by the principle that education's duty does not merely equip individuals with the knowledge and the social skills required to succeed in this world. Christian education, over which he is diocesan superintendent, must make the student aware of his purpose in life.

Msgr. Halloran's recent elevation to the rank of papal chamberlain by His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, is recognition of the marks of a Catholic educator which he possesses.

Aquinas, a Central Catholic High School, was erected to serve the students of the nine La Crosse parishes and those of nearby St. Joseph Ridge, Genoa, Onalaska, and La Crescent.

The Council of Parish Representatives is composed of delegates from each of these parishes and acts as an executive committee of the APTO. Members are pictured as they conferred with the school's administration in an organizational meeting in September.

The Reverend Joseph F. Kunding, headmaster of Aquinas, explains the public address system to Mr. and Mrs. Alois Pedretti, left, and to Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Griesgraber.

Heating a building the size of Aquinas is the topic of conversation for Edward Seubert, head engineer, center, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Freybler, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Yunker.

Importance of student counseling is explained by Sister Rosilda, supervisor, to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Alexander, left, and to Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Gilbert.

Mary Ann Merrell seeks the advice of Walter Daniels, band director. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Merrell.

President of the Aquinas
Parent-Teachers
Organization

Backers

Agencies which serve Aquinas High School include a Council of Administration, the Aquinas Boosters, and the Aquinas Parent-Teachers Organization, APTO.

Clergymen and laymen appointed by the Bishop compose the Council of Administration which molds the financial policies of the school.

An organization of associates of the school which promotes the athletic program is the Aquinas Boosters.

Oldest auxiliary of the school is the Aquinas Parent-Teachers Organization.

In the press department Mr. and Mrs. Roland Larkin, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Larkin discuss the school publications with Sister Rita Jeanne, publications adviser.

Student health receives the attention of Mr. and Mrs. John Erickson, left, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Cunningham, right. Miss Victoria Malinowski, school nurse, makes the explanations.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Delagrave learn from the Reverend Charles Blecha, athletic director, what attracts sons James, Warren, and Eugene to the school's athletic program.

Miss Patricia Krueger, assistant registrar, explains the rexograph machine to Mr. and Mrs. John Desmond, left, and to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Heinke.

Public Relations

Sister Clarence and Sister Carina, fifth from the left and far right, of the Aquinas faculty were among teachers from La Crosse schools who toured local business places on Business-Education Day. Others pictured at the First National Bank are R. E. Munk, Cashier; H. H. Huber, Vice-President; Emery Leamer, La Crosse State College Training School Principal; Sister Imelda, St. Joseph Ridge School Instructor; Agnes Dahlgren, Washington School Instructor; and George A. MacLachlan, Bank President.

It's Prom Time

King Edward Kiedrowski chose Lucille Reinhard to reign as queen over the 1950 Junior Prom. "Cinderella's Ball" was the theme of this leading spring event.

Linguists Study Other Lands

Mary Urban, Patricia Engh, and Mary Mezera, members of the Spanish Club, Circulo Espanol, study before their monthly meeting.

German Club officers celebrate Christmas according to German traditions. Ardell Hampton, secretary; Charles Runningen, vice-president; and David Vollmar, president, are preparing the bulletin board.

Student interest in modern languages has been increased through German and Spanish Clubs. Both of these organizations are under the direction of Sister Laurinda.

These clubs exist in order to achieve better acquaintanceship with the language, life, and customs of the peoples of the countries whose language is studied. They create greater interest in the study of the respective languages and promote proficiency in their use through practice in oral expressions.

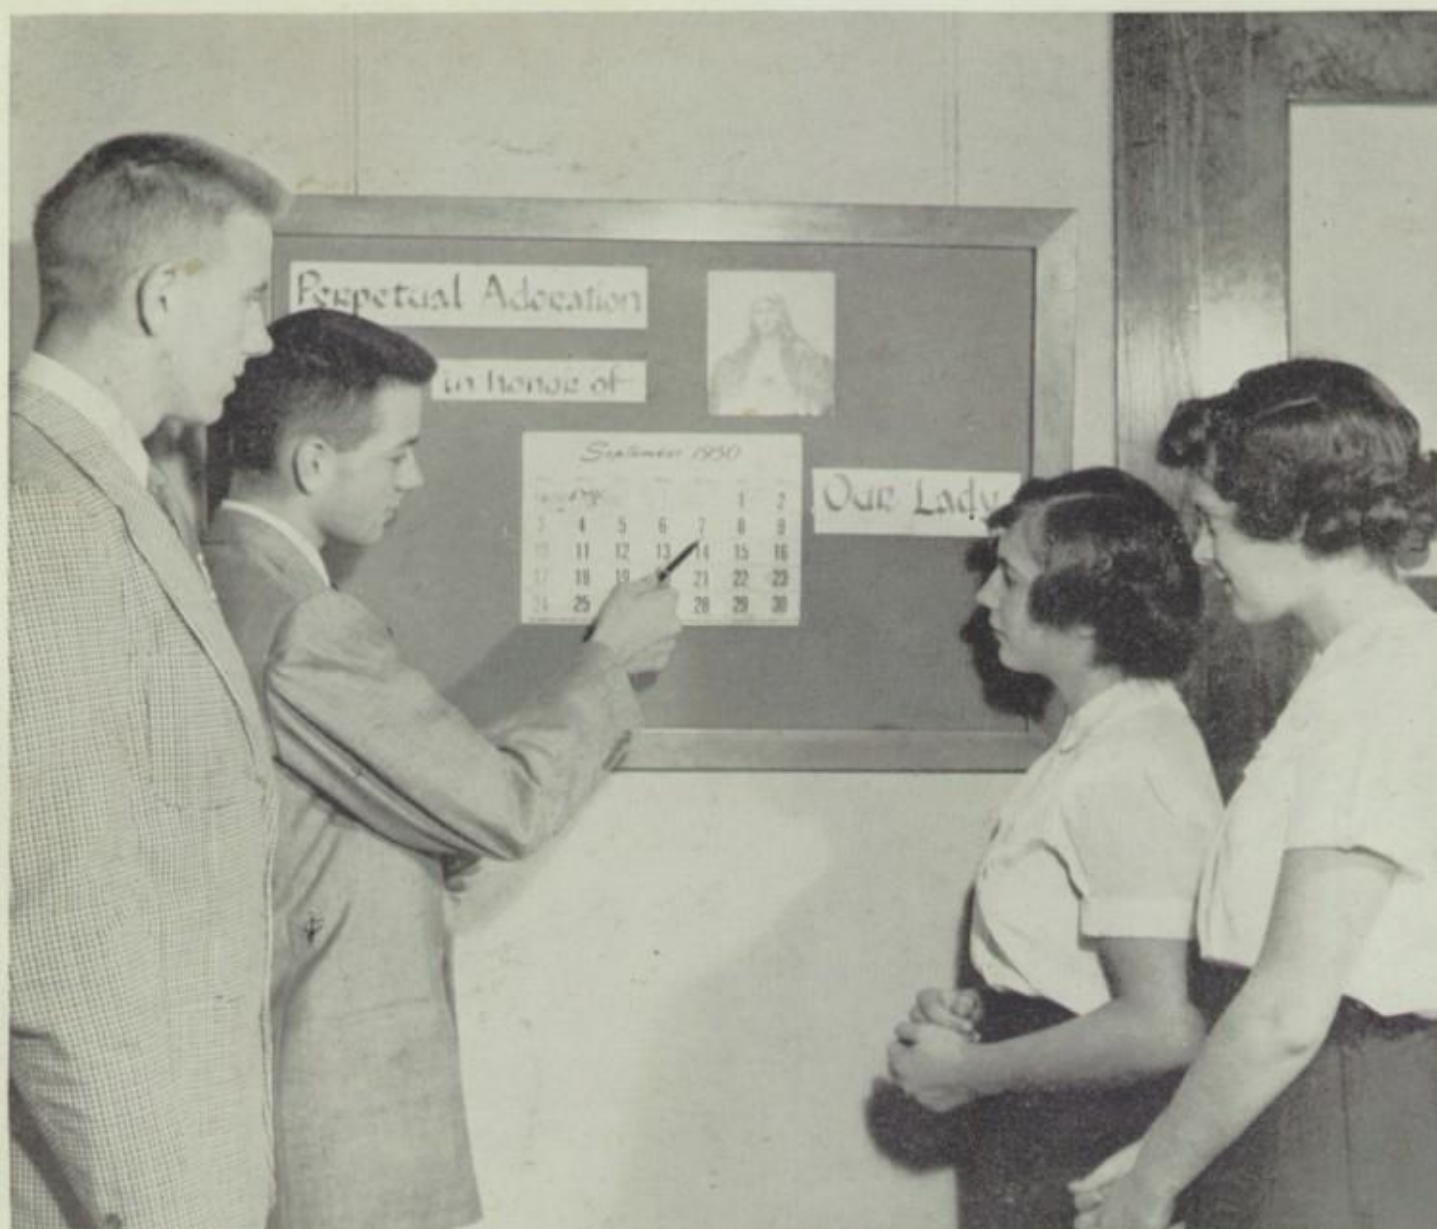

Spanish Club officers are Mary Larkin, president; Mary Mach, vice-president; Donna Korpel, secretary; and Marlene Merfeld, treasurer.

Officers of the German Club, Lorelei Verein, are David Vollmar, president; Charles Runningen, vice-president; Ardell Hampton, secretary; and Mary Schachinger, treasurer.

Student Council

The ACOSA, Aquinas Council of Student Affairs, has completed its fourth year. This student group assumes the obligation of promoting the school's social and religious events and acts as an official sounding-board of student opinion. Sister Zelma is moderator.

ACOSA president, Charles Cunningham, second from left, is aided in his planning of the council's activities by James Temp, vice-president; Jane Pavela, treasurer; and Mary Larkin, secretary.

Future Homemakers

Future Homemakers of America, F.H.A., Aquinas Chapter, was organized October 24, 1950. As a girls' organization its activities are intended to stimulate greater interest in classwork in order to learn how to live better today so that families may be better tomorrow. Sister Maristelle and Sister Althea are moderators.

F.H.A. members consider the merits of good grooming. Seated are Lucille Yehle, Jeanne Corbett, and Shirley Kubiak. Behind them are Ruth Kendhammer, Janet Marson, and Fay Leinfelder.

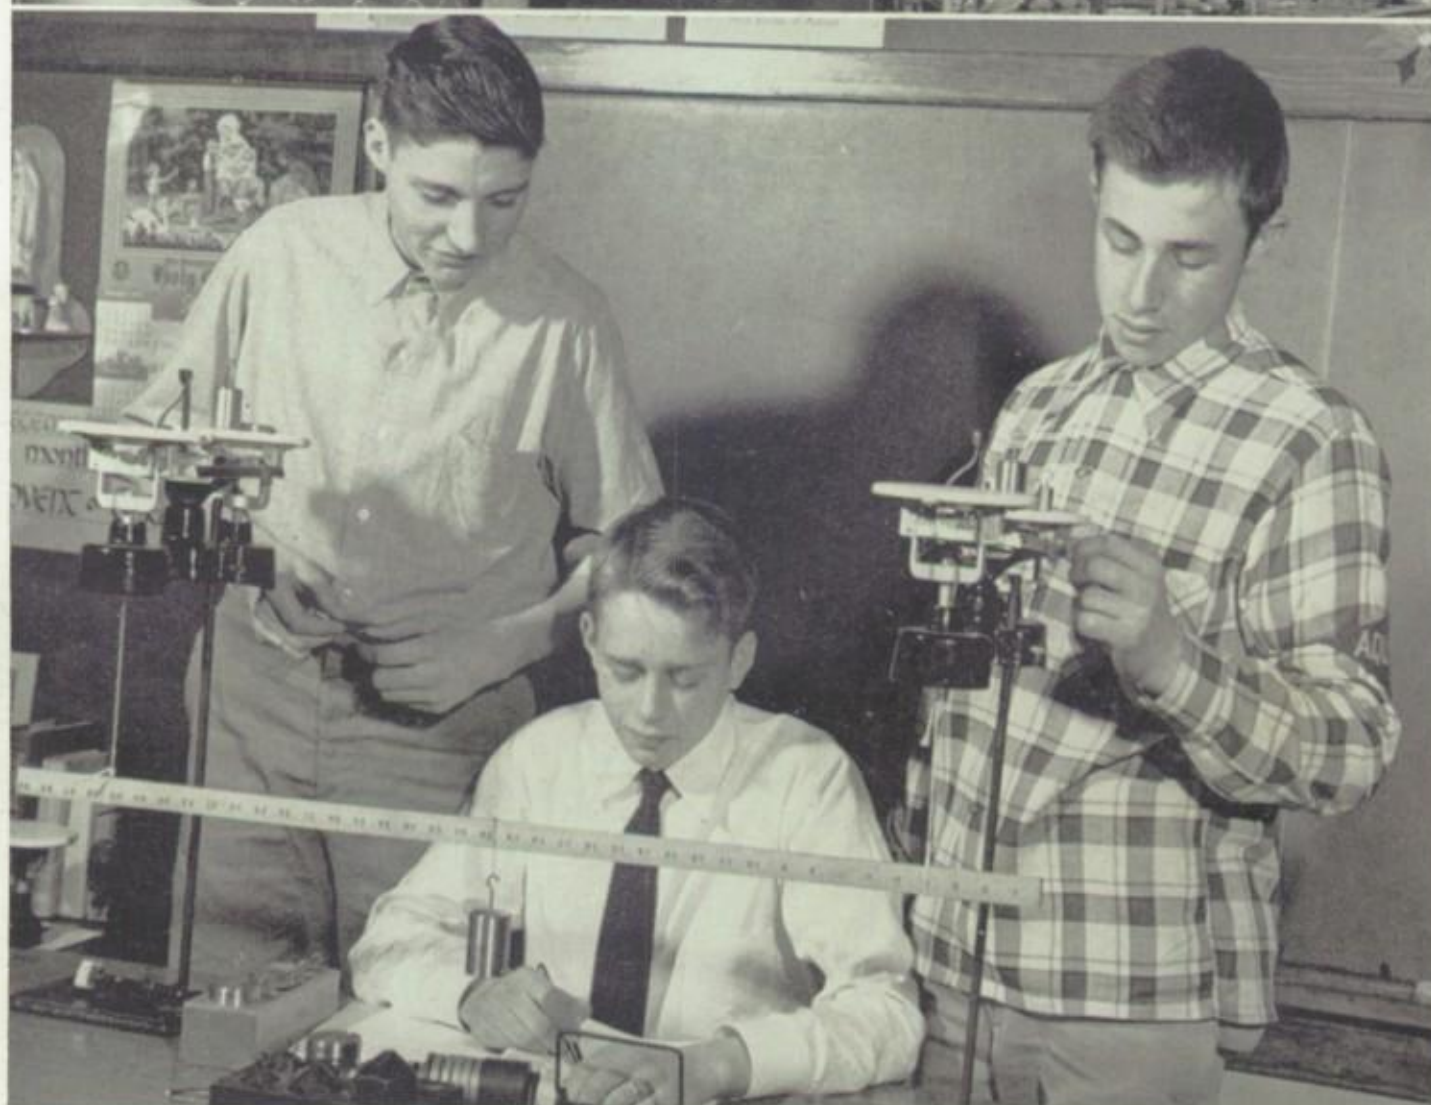

Searchers of the Natural World

Philip Yunker, Patricia Poellinger, Gregory Downey, and James Zoerb assist Carola Abraham in a chemistry experiment.

Robert Hafner, Glenn Twite, and Kent Lawrence compare clockwise and counter-clockwise moments in an experiment in the physics laboratory.

Courses in the scientific field include general science, biology, chemistry, and physics.

For those students to whom the probing of the secrets of nature offers a pleasant challenge is added the additional incentive which the Junior Academy of Science affords.

A local unit of this national society has been established at Aquinas. This year Audrey Hardiman presided at the local and at the state meeting in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Each year its members, true to the definition that science is an orderly arrangement of knowledge gleaned, present scientific projects as reports. These are the products of their own initiative and are entered in state competition.

Student Librarians

Members of the Library Club contribute their services during study periods and after school hours to the patrons of the school library. Sister Cunisse, librarian, is moderator of the organization.

"Ageless Books for Every Age" was the theme of Catholic Book Week that members of the club worked out. Sponsorship of a "Book Fair" by the club and staff highlighted this year's celebration of Book Week.

Nola Noel, extreme left, president of the Library Club, directs the activities of these senior members. Nancy Eeg is seated at the typewriter. Others are Phyllis Redig, Kathleen Semke, and Geraldine Calkins.

Underclassmen also serve on the library staff. Seated are Colette Grabinski, Elizabeth Buchner, Patricia Ferris, Kathryn Ferries, Rita Poehling, and Maxine Hansen. Standing are Sandra Reget, Irene Rutz, Gladys Fries, Joanne Schaller, Phyllis Nesseth, Mary Ferris, Roberta Kenney, Ann Theisen, and Joanne Lucey.

Today's Debaters - - Tomorrow's Leaders

Debate is the art of expressing well what is well worth expressing. It trains the student in concise reasoning habits, develops fluent speakers, and builds self-confidence. Senior debaters were under the direction of Sister Mary Michael.

Junior-sophomore debaters attended and placed in tournaments in La Crosse, Eau Claire, and Milwaukee. Sister Theodata, speech instructor, was coach for this intermediate group.

Wisconsin's unpredictable weather was always a hazard but Father Kunding's faithful Packard never failed to get the senior debaters to tournaments. In the upper photo are Jane Pavela, Gerald Downey, John Lyons, and John Bedessem.

Aquinas News - - Keys That

Satisfaction in the knowledge of something well done came to "Aquinas News" staff members. The "News" was chosen as one of the nation's ten best Catholic high school newspapers by the National Catholic School Press Association.

The international organization, Quill and Scroll, gave it its highest rating and the National Scholastic Press Association awarded the "News" an All-American rating. First place was also awarded in the contest held by the Columbia Press Association.

Unlock Truth - - The Trumpet

What this yearbook purposes to commemorate — the Aquinas school year of 1950-51, personalities which created its success, and, for seniors, memories of four years spent in an institution of learning and inspiration — are effects which find their origin in the divine mission of instructors and in the thirst for knowledge and spiritual satisfaction of students.

The staff of "The 1951 Trumpet" offers this edition to you in the hope that the faces pictured and the activities recorded present an accurate account of events and are truly suggestive of the knowledge gleaned and of the effort expended in the interest of Christian education.

Students who have served on both "Trumpet" and "News" staffs, lower right picture, are Arlene Sikorski and Rosalie Oestreicher, typists; Patricia Wisler, business manager; Mary Noel, illustrator; Lynn Schneyer and Peter Schaettle, photographers; Alois Friet, sports writer; and Charles Cunningham, sports editor.

Mass Servers

1950 - 1951

Each school day commences with the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Each student who participates does so in the knowledge that it is the constantly renewed Sacrifice of Calvary in which he partakes.

The Sacrifice of the Mass is the perfect sacrifice. It is the offering of the infinite Son of God to His Father in reparation for man's sins. The student's participation in the Mass suggests his sorrow for his own misdeeds and his desire to obtain from the Mass the grace to do better.

The Mass is the renewal of that act of infinite love of an infinite Being in which He gave Himself for His creatures. Again, when the student partakes in the Mass, he shows his appreciation and a willingness to reciprocate the love of his God.

Christian education would be incomplete without the Mass, for it is the purpose of Christian education to inspire man to seek to serve his God; that is, to practice the virtue of religion. The Mass is the perfect act of religion.

Golden Mass

Annual participation in the Golden Mass highlighted the pre-Christmas season. On December 20 the seventh yearly observance occurred. At the Offertory of the Mass the students carried to the altar gifts of food and clothing to be sent to the nation's missions.

The Mass of the Wednesday in the Ember Week of Advent, the Golden Mass, is one which reflects the faith and joy of the Christian who awaits the redemption earned for him by One Whose coming the penitential season of Advent anticipates. In such a spirit, the Christian, in thanksgiving for the rewards of eternal happiness offered to Him, gives of his temporal gifts to those less fortunate than himself.

Giving the gifts at the Offertory further reminds the Mass-goer of the participation of the laity in the Sacrifice. It commemorates, as does the Offertory collection in any Mass, the ancient days in which those attending Mass provided, at that juncture, the bread and wine for the Eucharistic service.

The blessing of the Golden Mass gifts precedes their being sent to the mission fields. The Reverend Stanley Andrzejewski, celebrant, is flanked by the Reverend George Nelson, deacon, and the Reverend James Ennis, subdeacon.

Acolytes are Howard Erickson, Thomas Bruha, Earl Ritter, Thomas Gautsch, and Rudolph Lusk. The Reverend Joseph Ferron and Charles McCabe represent the faculty and homeroom officers.

Homeroom officers lead the student body in the reception of Holy Communion. Holy Mass was celebrated in the auditorium, temporarily improvised as a chapel for this occasion.

Mary, We Crown Thee

Each year the student body demonstrates its respect and veneration for the one worthy to be the Mother of God in the annual crowning of the Virgin Mary as Queen of May.

The crowning symbolizes a dedication of that month to a more intensified pursual of that type of life which won for the Queen of Heaven her reward.

Ceremonies last year consisted of a student procession, the crowning, an address in "Tribute to Mary" by the Reverend John Trant and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Harriet Galligan was chosen by her classmates to perform the coronation.

Winter Concert - - Hopes Rise Heavenward

Joan Franke represented the Mother of God in the dedicational tableau of the annual Winter Concert.

on Wings of Music

One of the major musical performances was the Winter Concert, December 17 and 18.

This year's performance was distinguished by the initial student performance on the harp. Harp soloist was Alice Engelhard. Joan Franke appeared as the Mother of God in the dedicational tableau. Vocal soloists and small ensemble groups, the Triple Trio and the Discords, added to the program.

Massed choruses united with the 56-piece orchestra in many selections. Suggestive of the extent of student participation is the size of the participating groups. Members in the senior choir numbered 105. In the junior choir there were 65 students; the combined girls' glee club counted 145 members.

Junior Benevolent Society

In the twelve years of its existence, the Junior Benevolent Society has become one of the foremost student organizations at Aquinas.

Its members sponsor annual Christmas, Halloween, and Easter parties for the city's underprivileged families. They also hold a Valentine tea at St. Joseph Home for the Aged and direct the Golden Mass.

They strive to promote the spiritual and material welfare of the families committed to their care.

Pilgrim Virgin Is Our Hostess

"Men must cease offending my Divine Son, already too grievously offended." Thus prefacing his remarks, the Reverend D. C. Stringer keyed his address at the Marian hour at Aquinas October 9, 1950. The occasion was the visit of the Pilgrim Virgin, the image of Our Lady of Fatima, whose words Father Stringer quoted. Benediction closed the hour.

Members of the student council, traffic guides, hall monitors, class officers, homeroom officers, and band members form a guard of honor to the Pilgrim Virgin.

John Bedessem and Gerald Downey, seniors, carry the image of Our Lady of Fatima in procession before the Marian hour. Band members stand at attention while the Pilgrim Virgin proceeds to the auditorium.

The Reverend Matthew Vetter, C.P.
Freshman Retreat Master

The Reverend Godfrey Poage, C.P.
Junior and Sophomore Retreat Master

Serving as the initial major spiritual program of the year was the twentieth annual retreat, September 27, 28, and 29. It served as a spiritual checkup on the recent vacation period.

April 11, 12, and 13 marked the spring retreat, the first of its kind in the history of the school. It was conducted with the objective of examining the students' spiritual progress during the past year as a preparation for the ensuing vacation period.

Retreat and Conquer

Geraldine Calkins, Shirley Frey, and Regina Gschwind, seniors, consult with the Reverend Howard Ralenkotter, C.P., seniors' retreat master.

Discussing with the Reverend Jordan Grimes, C.P., confessor, are Richard Norby, Mary Louise Liskovec, Virgil Buchner, and Virginia Gittens.

Mission Club, Christ's Power Line

Senior members of the Mission Club sort cancelled stamps. They are Betty Lanzel, Ellen Schmidt, and Beverly Conway.

Joan and JoAnn McKee report to Leahrae Ledman, seated. The girls devote themselves to the club's junior division.

Intent upon boosting moral and material aid to Christ's missionaries, senior and junior girls formed a Mission Club moderated by Sister Antilia and Sister Clementa.

Members cooperated with the Junior Benevolent Society in distributing the proceeds from the Golden Mass among the home missions. In general, a participator in the club's activities endeavors to raise funds for material aid for the missionaries and seeks in prayer to sustain them spiritually.

Officers of the senior organization are Barbara Desmond, president; Patricia Engh, secretary; and Donna Korpel, treasurer. Margaret Flock, president of the junior section, is assisted by Carlyee Pretasky, secretary, and Jeanne Gleason, treasurer.

Our Lady of Good Counsel Club

Under the patronage of the Mother of God in her role of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Aquinas girls have organized to investigate the religious life. The Good Counsel Club is moderated by the Sisters. Members acquire information on various religious orders and in their activities share it with each other.

Mary Louise Liskovec and Lois Hess question Joyce Bantle, postulant of St. Rose Convent and alumna of Aquinas, about the traditional Christmas ceremony held there annually.

Consulting with the moderator, the Reverend James Ennis, are officers of the Don Bosco Club — James Temp, Raymond Gantenbein, William Skemp, and Jack Finley, seated.

Don Bosco Club

When the Reverend Howard Ralenkotter visited Aquinas, plans were laid for the formation of the Aquinas unit of the Don Bosco Club. Father Ralenkotter is the organization's national moderator.

The Aquinas unit, which seeks to promote interest among boys in the religious life, is moderated by the Reverend James Ennis.

Price Paid for a Christian Education

The relative value a person places upon an object he seeks can be determined by the price he is willing to pay for it. Catholic education does not come cheap. Its worth is estimated by the many sacrifices made by the students and the parents who provide their children with the advantages of a Christian education.

Many students work during the school year and during vacation periods to pay for their education. Some come many miles in buses or private modes of transportation. Others board in the city in order to receive the benefits of a Christian education. All this testifies to the appreciation Aquinities have for a school system dedicated to the teaching of the word of God.

Jeanne Gleason, Alfred Mathews, and Joseph Schiffer stock the shelves of Mulder's Market after school hours.

Mary Fisher's after school work is assisting in a home.

Helen Bahr is baby-sitter to two charges. They are Susan and Patrick Gantert, children of Aquinas alumni. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gantert (Rosemary McNamara) graduated in 1935.

Students boarding the bus are Jerome Nawrocke, Patricia Coon, Mary Lou Mosser, Shirley Ormsby, Lawrence Powers, Judith Ritter, and Yvonne Marson.

Thomas Gautsch, Charles McCabe, and Donald Kerska pose at the office of the "La Crosse Tribune" before taking their daily routes.

Catholicity

Mardi Gras, Bunny Ball

Queen Betty Sinniger, elected by the senior class, chose Andre Patnode as king to aid in reigning over the Mardi Gras celebration. Figures from a deck of cards decorated the gymnasium for the pre-Lenten event.

Social life of the school, temporarily ended during the Lenten season, was revived on Easter Monday. The sophomore class sponsored an informal dance, the Bunny Ball.

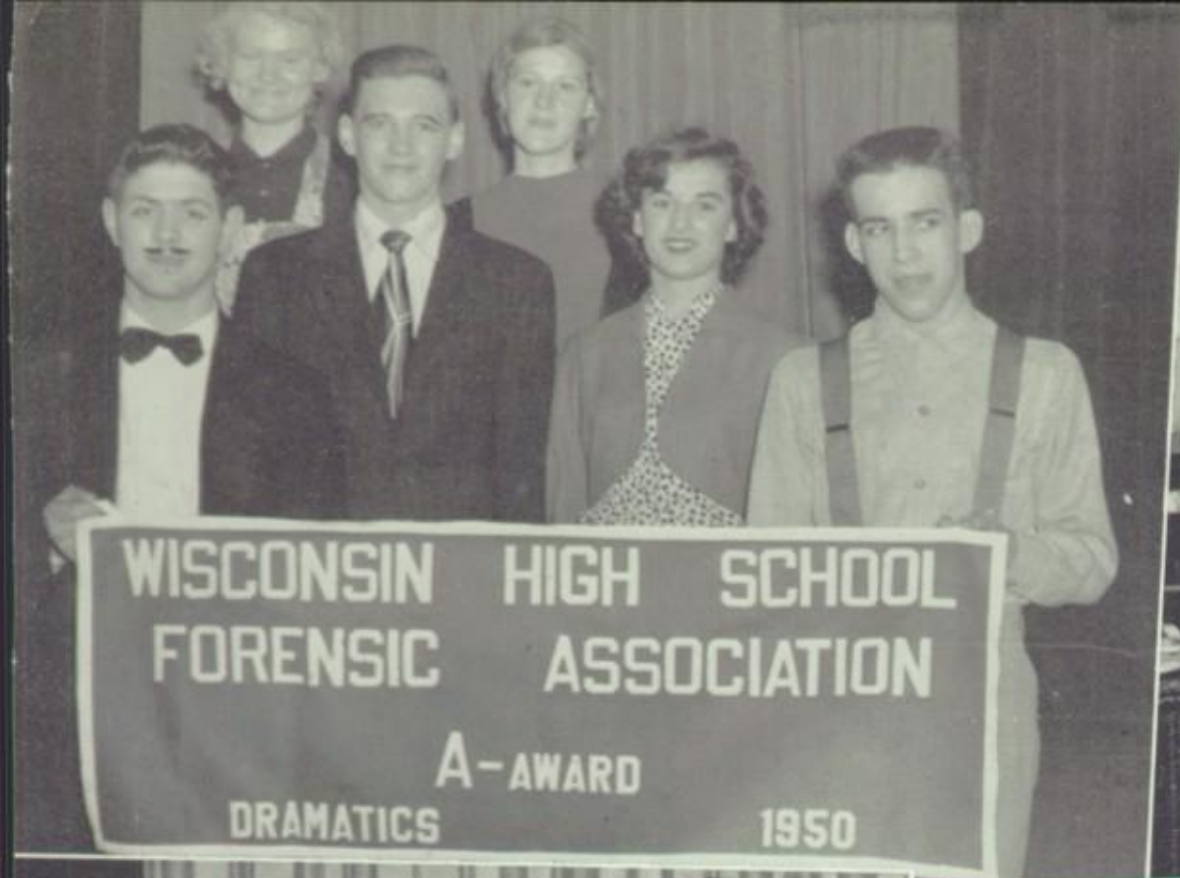

A court of nine couples surrounds Betty Sinniger and Andre Patnode, queen and king of the Mardi Gras. The couples are Gerald Collins and Mary Schachinger, Charles Buelow and Joan Grams, Raymond Gantenbein and Mary Noel, Herbert Snyder and Regina Gschwind, Edward Kiedrowski and Janice Walters, Charles McCabe and Bonita Horstman, Ronald Powers and Mary Monti, Arlyn Wilder and Katherine Boyle, and Alois Friet and Nancy Eeg.

Queen and king of the Mardi Gras are Betty Sinniger and Andre Patnode.

Dancers are seen at the post-Lenten dance, the Bunny Ball.

Other dancers are seen at the Bunny Ball. The couple in the foreground is Gerald Wakeen and Gloria Rohrer.

Behind the Scenes

Nancy Freeburn and Nola Noel prepare William Graf for making up in the green room.

Lynn Schneyer, John Havlik, and Warren Dahl, electricians, are among those behind the scenes.

Manford Knutson, Harold Erickson, and Giles Flanagan are members of the stage crew.

Dramatics and the allied arts receive much attention at Aquinas High School.

Senior dramatic students call upon their previous years of speech and English training when they devote themselves to the daily study of the transmission of ideas through dramatic entertainment.

"Why I Am a Bachelor," a one-act play, advanced through district and sectional competition to the state drama contest, where it was awarded an "A" rating.

In the La Crosse One-Act Play Festival held at Aquinas High School, "The Aquinas Players" were awarded a trophy for the best play production. They staged "The Flight of the Herons." Raymond Gantenbein received a trophy for the best acting.

Behind the scenes in all productions are also the stage and lighting crews. They, with the makeup artists and designers, contribute greatly toward the success of Aquinas dramatic presentations.

The Green

"De Lawd" contemplates what best to do with those unruly earth folks. Andre Patnode played the role of God in the Aquinas version of "The Green Pastures."

Over 4000 people saw and heard the major Aquinas dramatic production of 1951, "The Green Pastures," as it was presented in the Vocational auditorium, January 19, 20, and 21. "The Aquinas Players," in their presentation of Marc Connolly's triumph, attempted to elevate their audience to a greater spiritual awareness.

Andre Patnode, as "de Lawd" led a cast of 170, including 57 speaking parts. The role of the Archangel Gabriel was enacted by John Lyons, and Joseph Schiffer played the part of a Negro preacher, Mr. Deshee.

Noah, as played by Philip Ritter, instructs his wife, Therese Phalin, on provisioning the Ark's larder.

Zeba, Betty Murphy, captures the attention of two swains. Thomas Urban, as Flatfoot, and Charles Buelow, as Cain VI, vie for her attention.

Pastures

Action in the play begins as the audience becomes aware of the presence of a colored preacher who is instructing a Sunday school class. That action proceeds as the Old Testament tales the preacher tells are portrayed on various levels of the stage.

The play is a visualization of heaven as a three-dimensional wonder in which the occupants act very much like earth-bound folks.

Adam acquaints his wife, Eve, with the wonders of Paradise. James Temp and Mary Jo Tierney portrayed the Biblical pair.

Raymond Gantenbein, as Moses, and David Murphy, as Aaron, try the power of Aaron's rod.

Mr. Deshee relates to his students the story of creation. His class includes, clockwise, James Egelhof, Thomas Rudolph, Michael Ziegelmaier, Howard Erickson, Ann Theisen, Richard Collins, and Angeline Mader.

Patricia Poellinger and Rosalie Oestreicher, cleaning women, agree that God's office should be redecorated.

Gabriel, John Lyons, appears to have received an affirmative answer to his query: "Lawd, is it time for me to blow?"

Song of Norway - Operetta

"Song of Norway" was the major offering of the music department at the Vocational auditorium, April 28, 29, and 30. As the operetta told of the life of Edvard Grieg, Norway's national composer, the atmosphere was created by his own music.

The operetta recounts the inner trials of Grieg from the time when he first promises to write the song which will be truly representative of his native land until he actually accomplishes this. In the interim he is caught up in the net of artificiality of the music world until he re-establishes lost values after the shock of the death of a friend. Then he composes his "Concerto in A Minor."

Richard McLoone played the role of the composer. His wife, Nina, was portrayed in alternate performances by Betty Murphy and Jane Hillebrandt. The senior choir of 110 members was accompanied by the Aquinas orchestra.

Edvard Grieg - Chopin of the North

Composer Edvard Grieg, Richard McLoone, envisions his wife, Betty Murphy, and friend, Jack Kelly, who inspire his concerto.

Papa Grieg, Raymond Gantenbein, is scolded by Papa Nordraak, James Temp, and Mamma Grieg, Julie Galvin, for interrupting the dance.

Grieg, Richard McLoone, receives the news of his friend's death. His wife, Jane Hillebrandt, comforts him.

Pleading benefits Count Peppi, William Skemp, very little as the Countess, Joan Kowalewski, persists in her spendthrift ways.

Tito, the chocolate shopkeeper, Daniel Skemp, enjoys the latest tiff between the opera manager, Andre Patnode, and his star, the Countess Giovanni, Theresa Potaracke.

Dancers, Suzanne Opitz and Norma Cross, chat as the scheming prima ballerina, Alice Engelhard, plans to make a failure of the evening's performance.

Homecoming for Nina, Betty Murphy, is a happy occasion as she is welcomed by Rikaard Nordaak, Jack Kelly.

Lucille Reinhard, Mary Schachinger, Barbara Desmond, and Mary Monti were hostesses to Grieg during his stay on the Riviera.

Dancers are Judith Schneeberger, Mary Volz, Philip Fanello, Joyce Winter and Anthony Hoch.

Music in the Air

Song lightens the heart and gladdens the day. There is joy in the air when young folk lift their voices in song. Many times during the year the public and the student body are entertained when the Aquinas choral groups perform. Two organizations that participate in all musical offerings of the school are the Triple Trio and the Discords.

Close harmony is achieved by the Discords, Raymond Gantenbein, Anthony Hoch, Jack Kelly, and Robert Virnig.

Teamwork, Our Goal

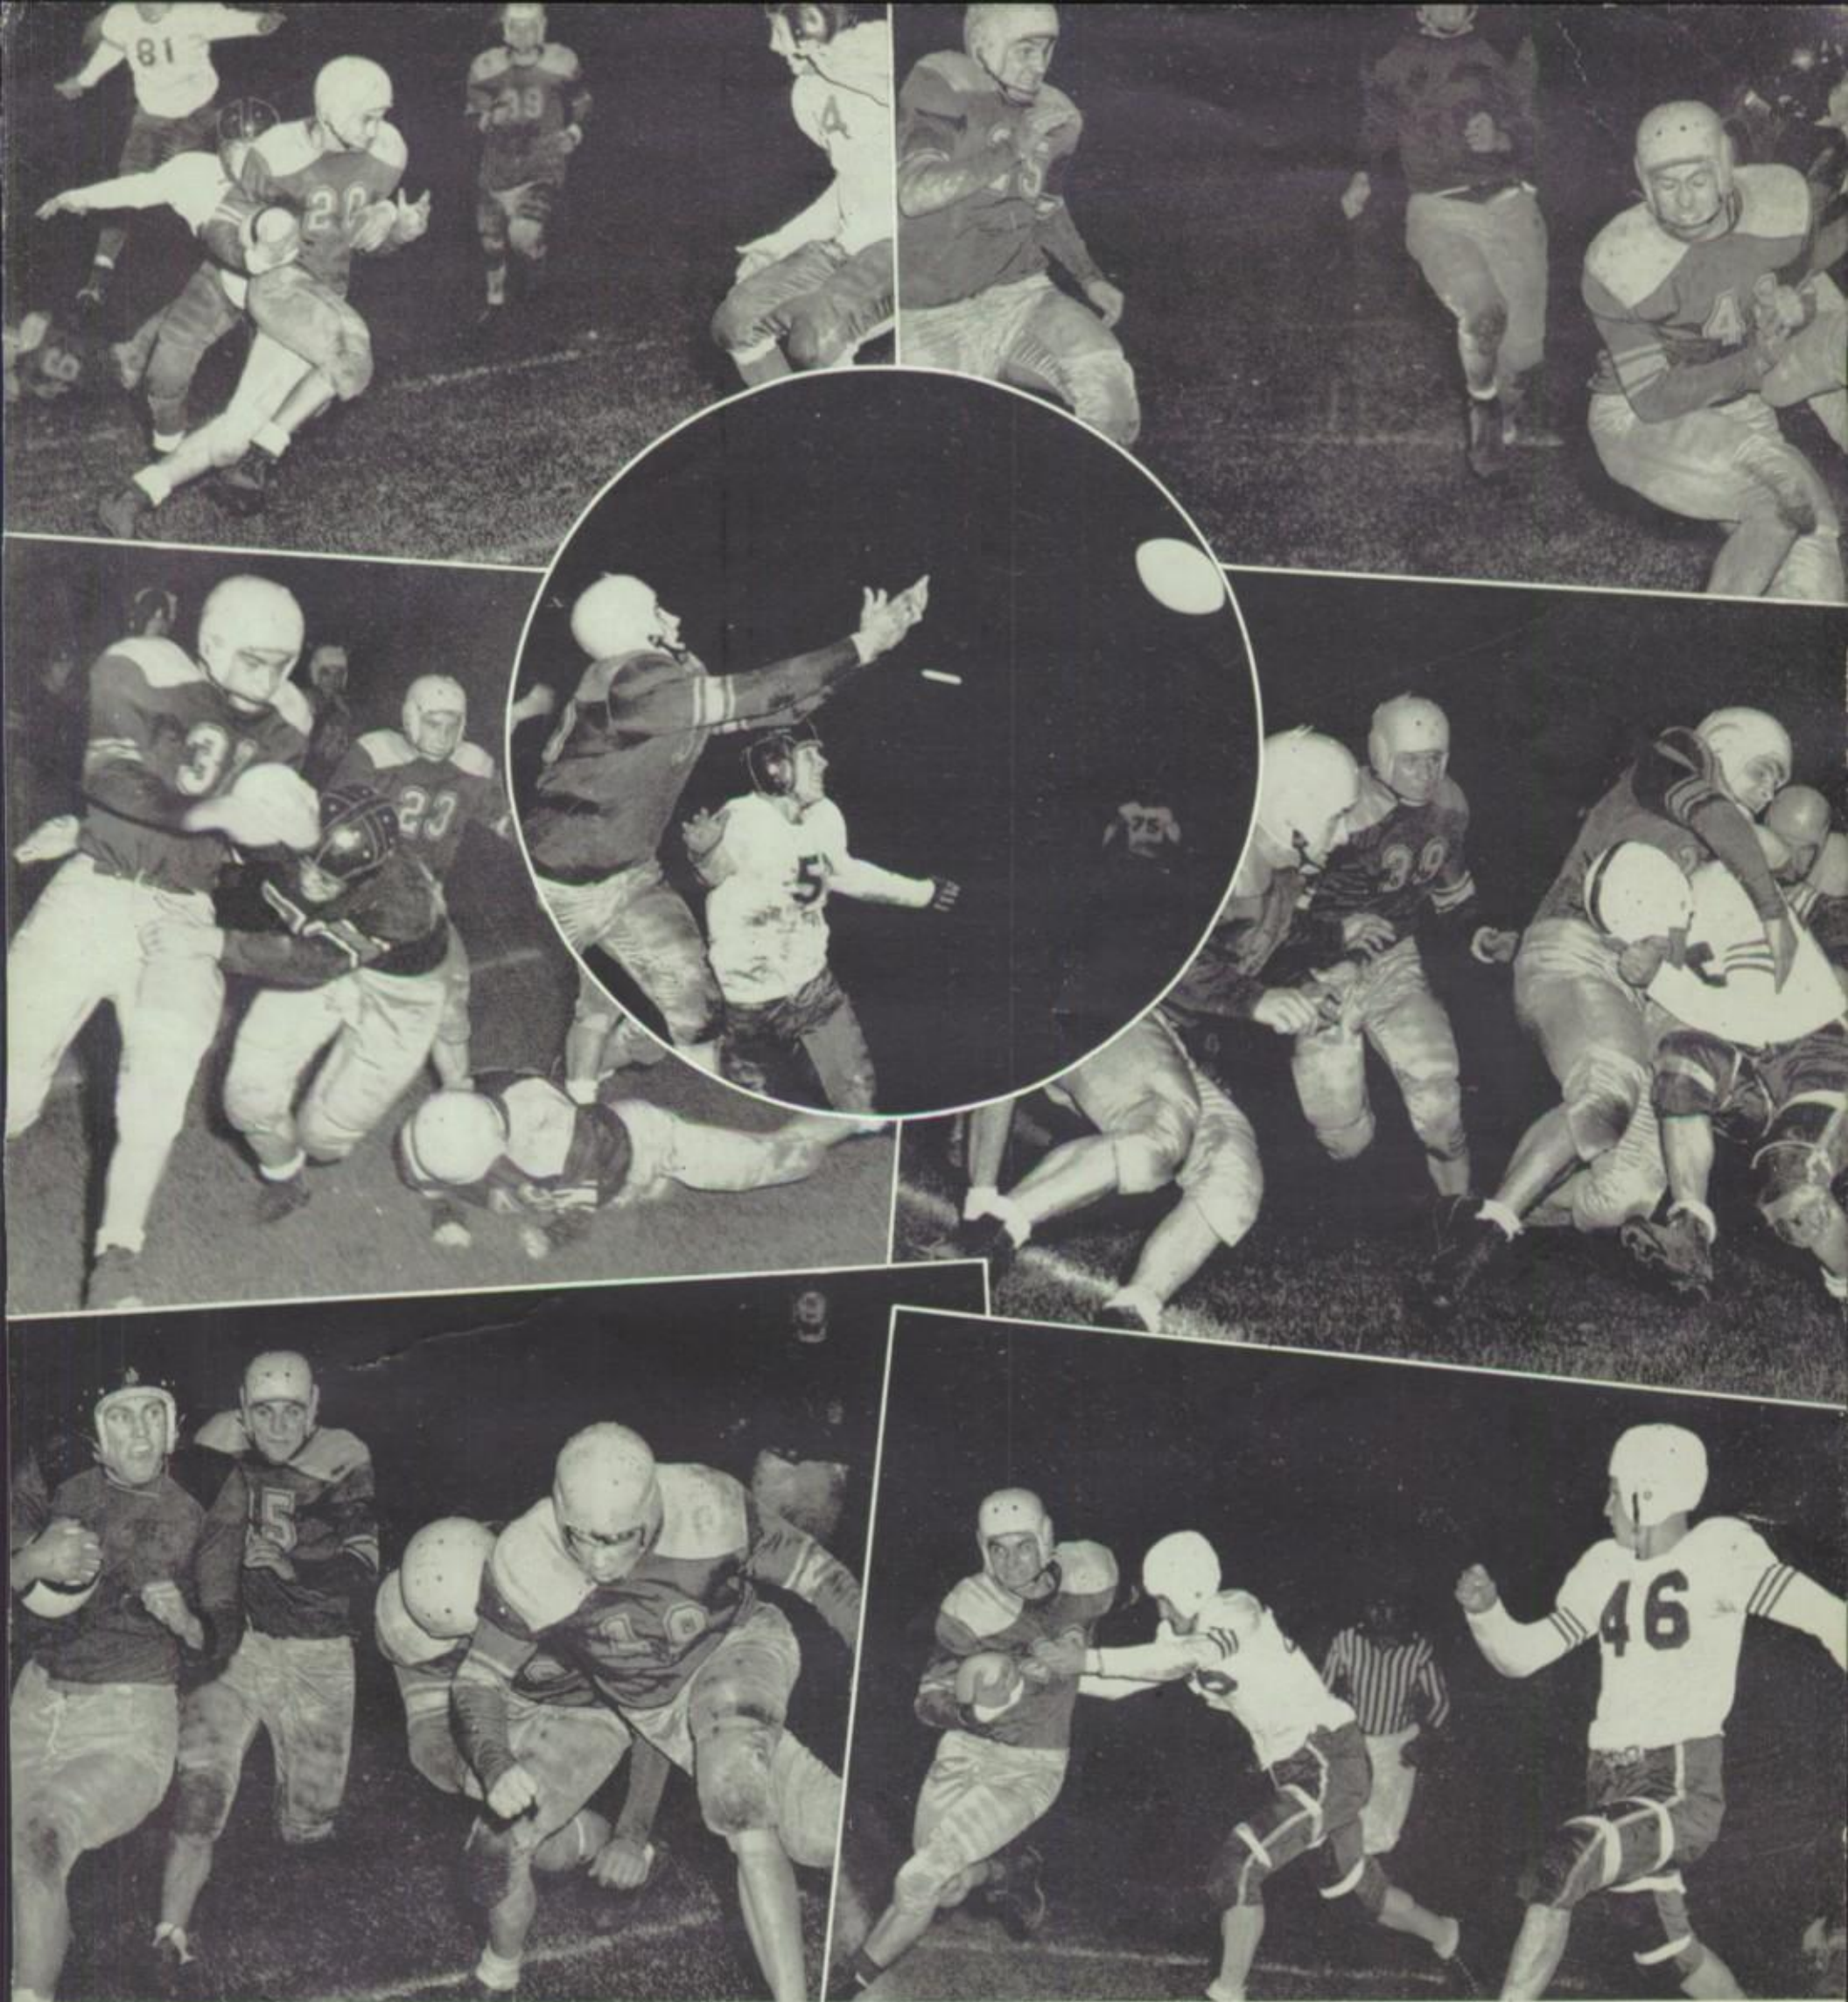

A heavy schedule and a nine game winning streak faced the Aquinas gridders as they opened the 1950 football season against McDonell. An aggressive Blugold team rolled to an impressive 27-0 win behind Jim Drendel's two touchdown runs. Again Drendel paced the Michutamen attack in the 24-0 drubbing of Madison Edgewood High School.

Coach Michuta's charges posted an intra-city win over Central, 28-0, in quest of their third straight city football championship. Still undefeated, untied, and unscored upon, the Blugolds waltzed by Cotter, 27-0, and Logan, 20-0. The Logan decision gave Aquinas the city title.

St. Pat's halted Aquinas' two-year victory string of 14 wins without defeat with a close 20-13 score. The final two encounters were dropped to Champion, 20-18, and an undefeated Loras academy squad, 34-6.

City Basketball Champs

With an 18 game winning streak hovering over them, the Aquinas basketball charges opened the 1950-51 court season with a 55-45 win over St. Augustine. The victory string ran to 21 with verdicts over St. Pat's and Lourdes before St. Thomas humbled the high-riding 'Golds. The following four contests saw an even split.

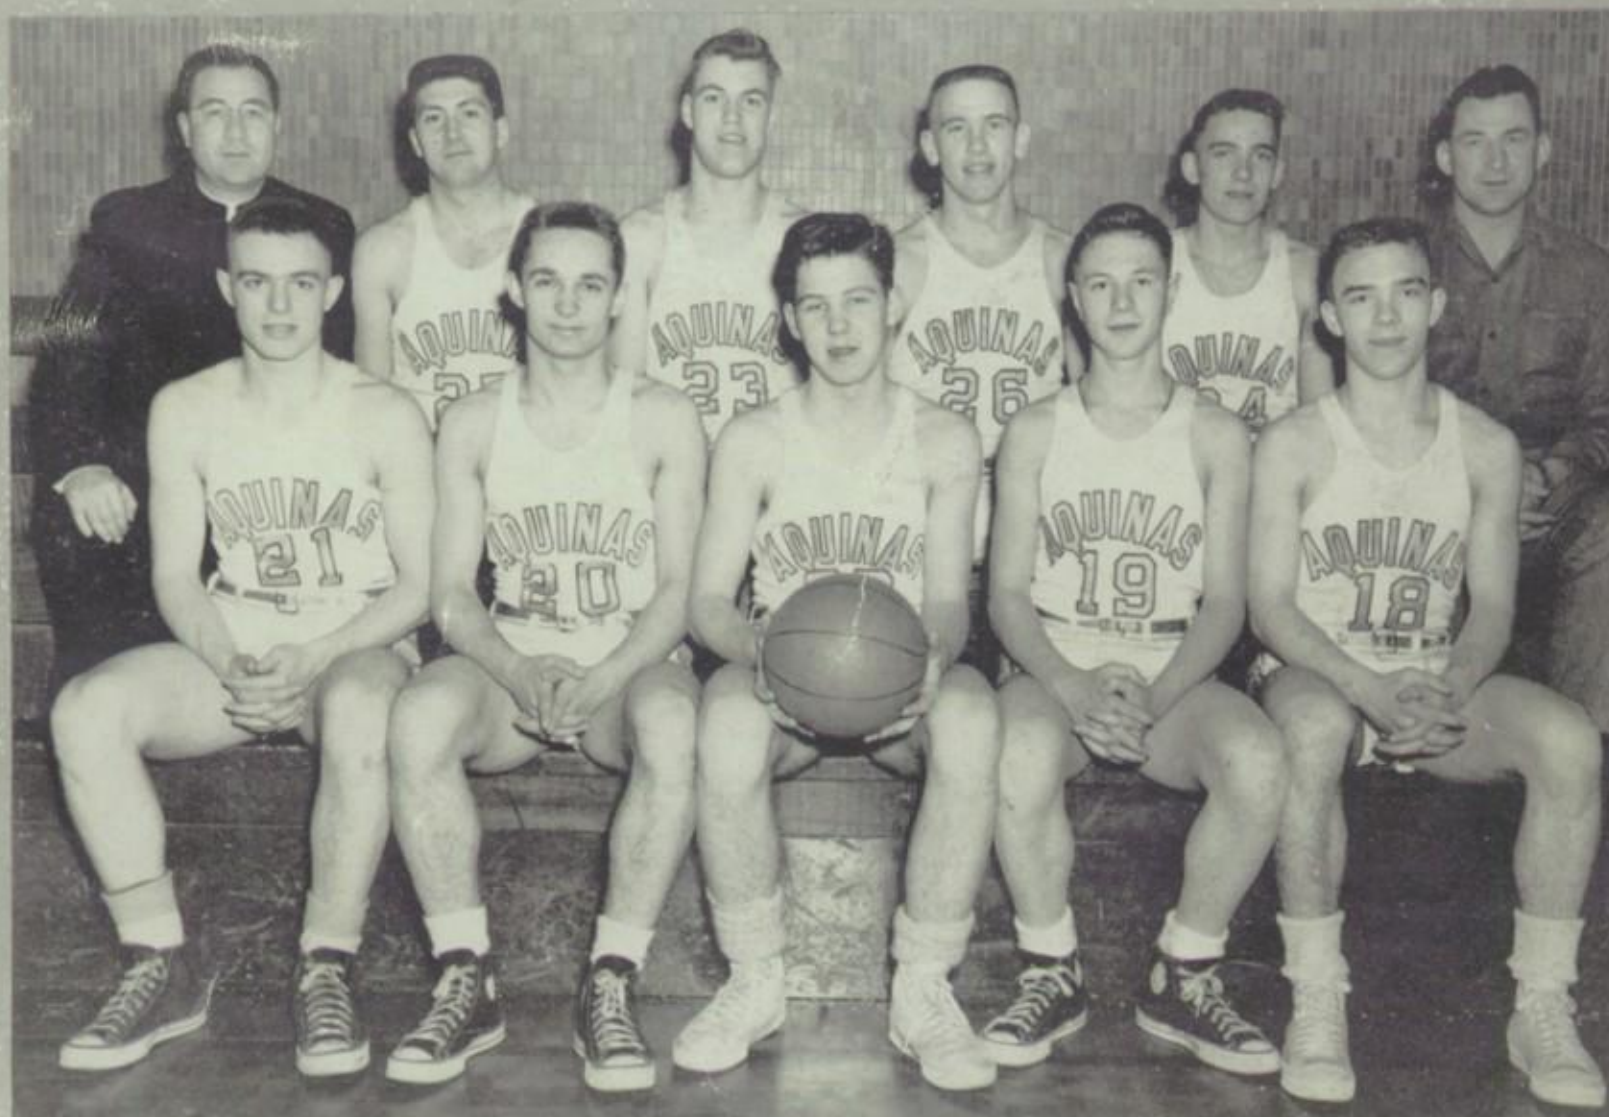

Wins were registered over Cotter and La Crosse Logan, the latter giving the Aquinites number one spot in the city race. McDonell and St. Thomas set the Blugolds down in very close ones, both being decided in the final seconds. The 'Golds took a firmer grip in the city race by dumping Central, 59-34.

Cotter fell a second time before the Blugolds but St. Pat's gained revenge in their return engagement. A new winning streak was starting as the Michutamen rolled over Loras, Campion, St. Augustine, Central and McDonell in that order. The powerful Campion Knights stopped the string with a final minute 47-44 decision. Aquinas closed the court season with wins over Lourdes, Loras, and Logan. The win enabled the 'Golds to retain the city championship.

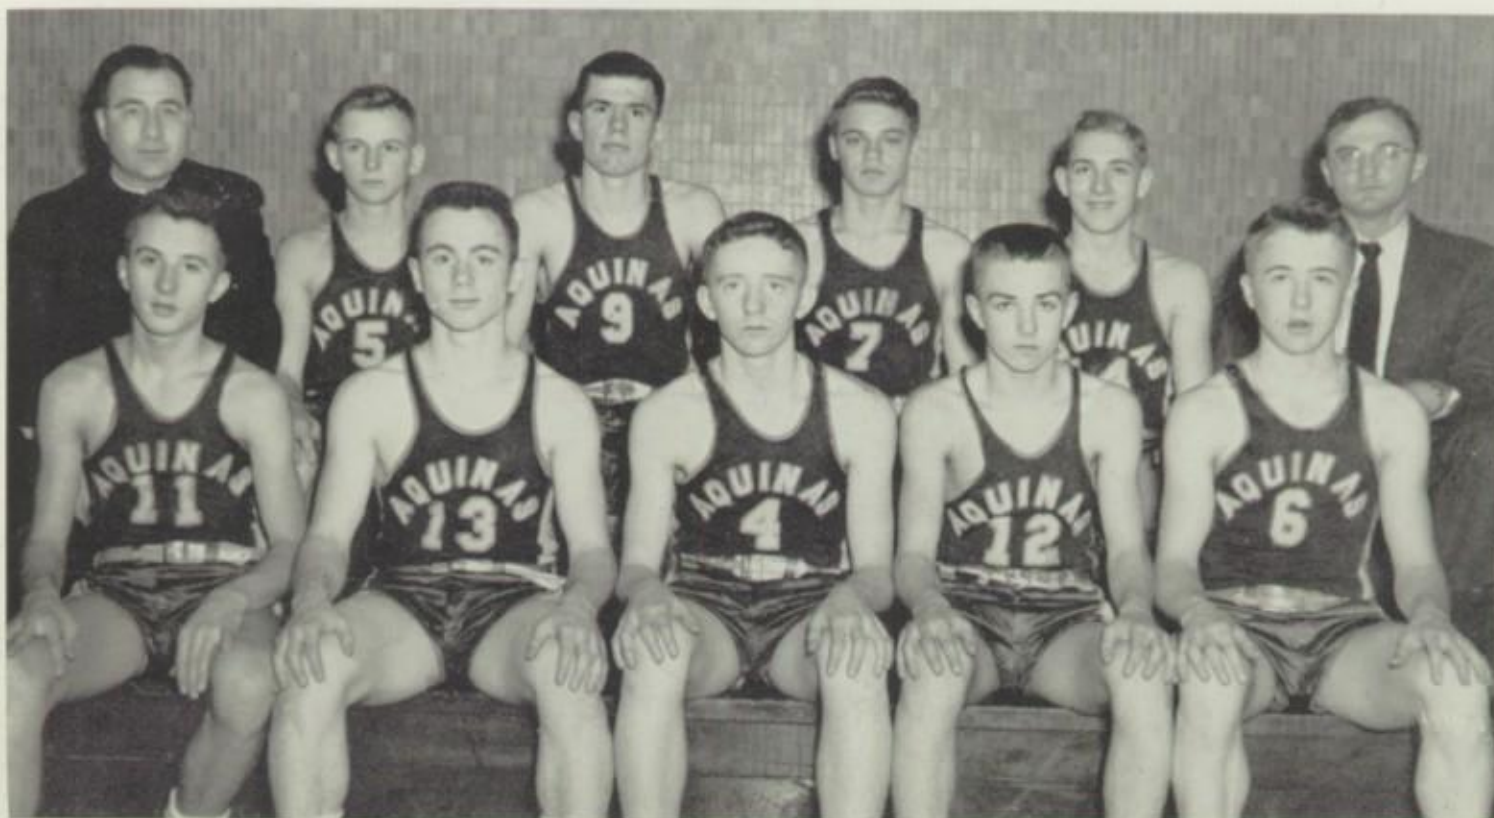

Tournament play matched the defending champions with St. Bonaventure in the initial fray. The Blugolds won this game, 64-39. Campion bowed to the smooth Aquinas squad in the quarter finals. In the semifinals a defensive minded St. Catherine quint of Racine slowed down the Blugolds and garnered a 49-43 verdict. Aquinas topped Milwaukee, St. John, for third place, 63-38.

First row: Dave Strittmater, Bill Coughlin, Jack Kerrigan, Tony Solberg, and Dave Ritter.

These two squads will furnish the varsity with future basketball greats. Some members of each squad have already moved to the top. The "B" team finished a successful campaign, meeting some rough opposition. Likewise, the freshman chargers rang up victories in their limited schedule.

Freshman Team

Second row: Jerry Seubert, Bob Terry, Ed Larkin, Rudy Schmitt, Ball Abraham, and Dave McCabe.

Rah! Rah! Team!

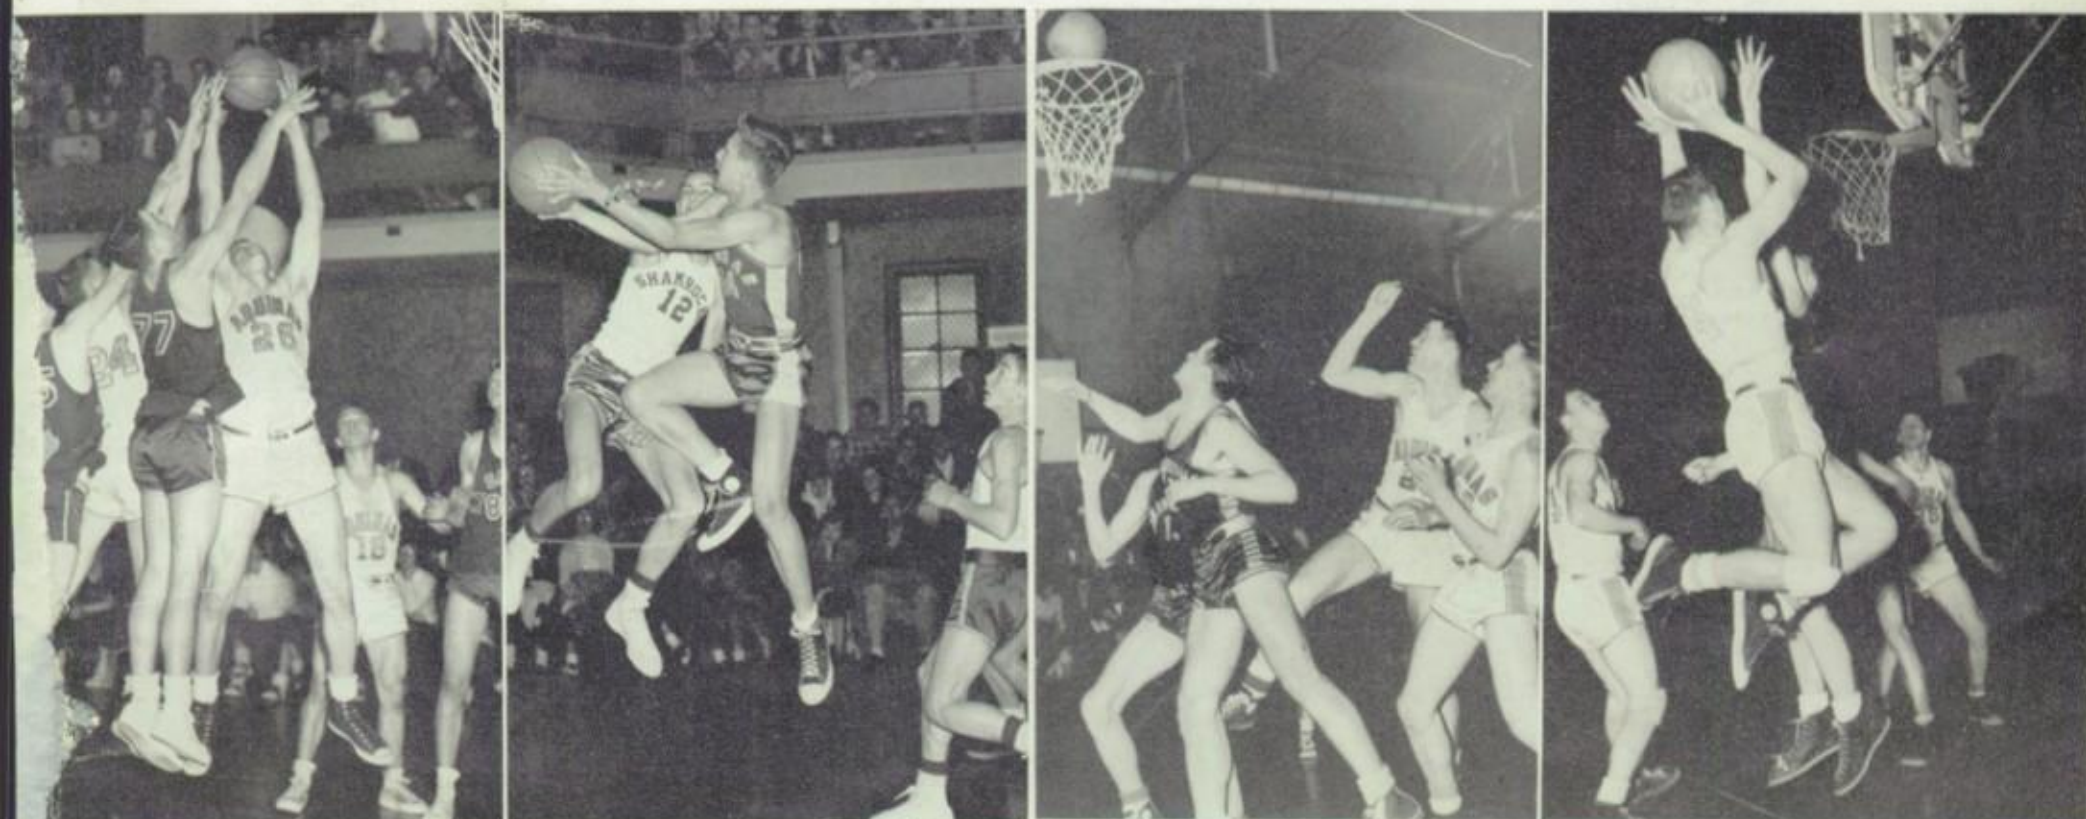

Bill Skemp, Aquinas' top forward, grabs a pass in the Central game as Tom Bruha, 30, and John Stellick, 18, watch, prepared to give any needed assistance.

Aquinas' John Stellick, 24, and Jim Temp, 26, leap for a rebound with Logan players, Bob Otto, 55, and Al Hilde, 77. Dave Weldy, 18, and Rich Severson, 88, look on.

Steve Anderson attempts a fancy lay-up as a St. Augustine player prepares to block it.

Bill Skemp and Jim Temp look surprisingly at the ball as it hovers over the rim in the St. Bonaventure contest.

Going high into the air, Blugold forward, John Stellick, is set to let fly with a jump shot. That's Bill Skemp and Jim Temp with their mouths open.

Diamondmen Win Glory

Top-notch hurling and powerful hitting led the Blugold diamondmen to a triumphant season of six wins and only two defeats. Coach Ray Staszak's nine tucked the city baseball title under their belts with two decisive verdicts over Central, 13-0 and 6-1.

Explosive power at the plate also accounted for the 7-0 and 19-5 routs over Melrose. In the only doubleheader of the campaign the 'Golds downed Cotter, 10-3 and 5-3. Champion's high-riding squad gave the Staszakmen their only defeats in two close, tough contests.

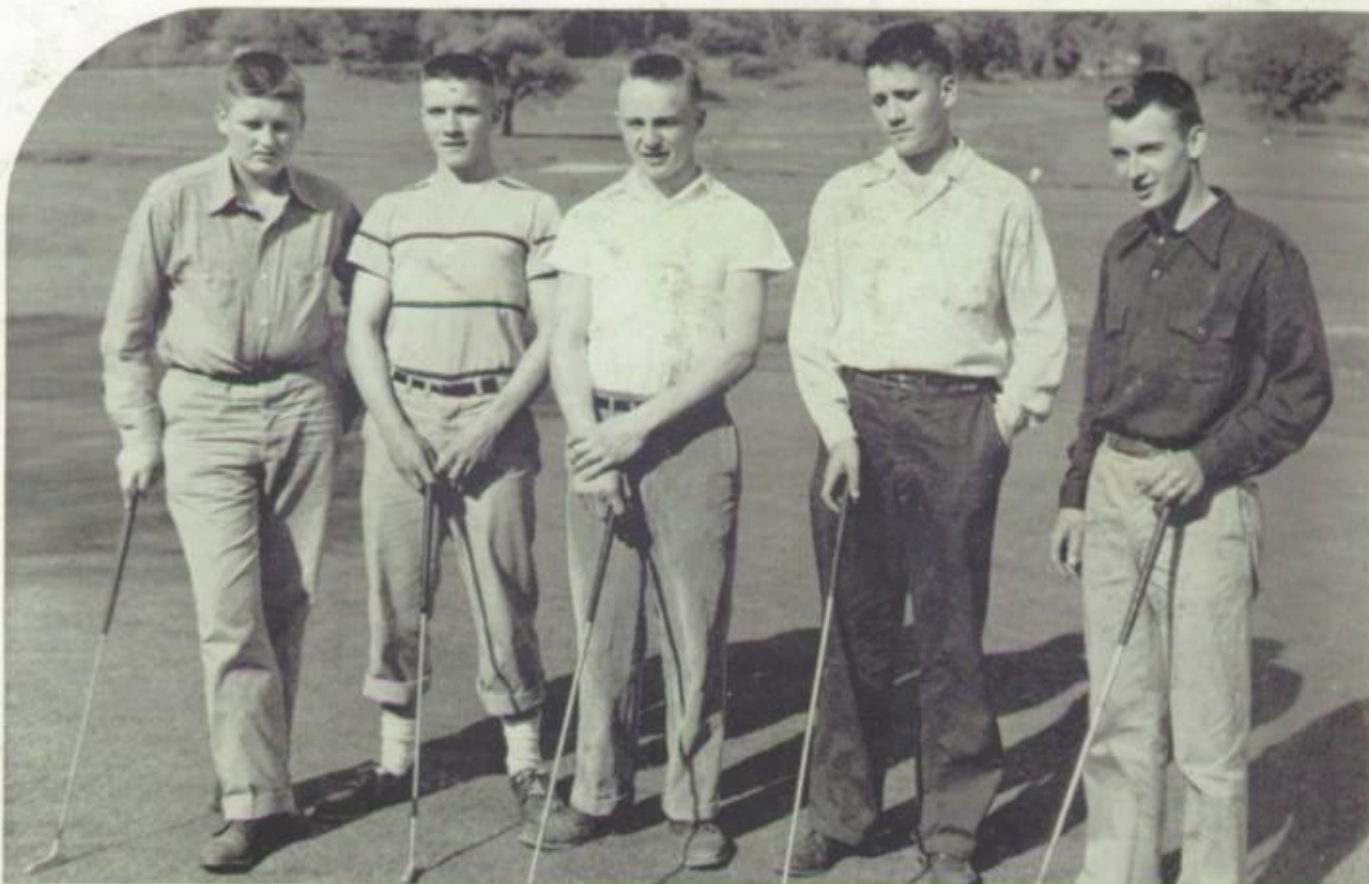

Dave McPeak, Dick Ritter, Joe Schiffer, and Ronald Powers composed the mound staff while Jim Temp and Bob Guggenbuehl received.

Golf, Tennis - Healthful Leisure

Coach John Michuta's linkmen rolled to a successful golf season in scorching the fairways with five wins in seven matches to win the city prep crown. Headed by Ken "Skip" Kubiak, a four-year man, the team knocked off Central twice for the title. The golfers also gained two decisions over St. Pat's, split a pair with Lourdes, and dropped their only meeting with Campion.

An even break of three victories, three losses, and one tie showed the efforts of the Blugold netmen under Coach Father Charles Blecha. The netters shut out Eau Claire's St. Pat's twice and stopped Viroqua for their other win. Central's Red Raiders dumped Father Blecha's racquetmen in their two meetings. Viroqua did the trick once. Campion tied the 'Golds.

Terry Murphy, Jack Kelly, Jim Kelly, John Garrity, and Ken Kubiak are happy after having captured the intra-city championship title.

Spirit Behind the Team

The man behind the man who has the ball is the fan. Hundreds of Aquinas fans have contributed to the school's athletic success. But it's the cheerleader who unites the loyal fans in backing their team and it's his contagious spirit which spreads among those rooters.

Girls who led the cheering on the basketball courts are Patricia Ferris, Mary Jo Tierney, Carolyn McConaghy, Judy Bruha, and Maureen Keegan.

Football Rally

Betty Murphy was elected by the student body to rule over the first annual Aquinas Football Rally, October 28, 1951. She chose Richard Skaff as her escort.

The court, as pictured above, included David McPeak, Warren Delagrave, Jack Murphy, Nancy Baum, Charles McCabe, Mary Volz, Robert Townsend, Bernadine Norby, Norma Hutzenbuehler, Sally Hammond, Richard Skaff, Betty Murphy, Mary Mach, Carolyn McConaghy, Nola Noel, Carol Moriarity, James Lewinski, Thomas Bruha, Jane Pavela, Ronald Powers, David Weldy, and Manford Knutson.

In halftime ceremonies Miss Blugold encircles the field accompanied by Mona Peterson, 1949 homecoming queen. Mr. Frank Billock of the S & H Sports Shop is the driver.

Hi ya! Well, I didn't think it would ever end. but it did. I'll probably starve now without your sandwiches in my room & I think I'll practice up on my card-playing too. I'll really have you a game sometime. I really had fun with you. Loads of luck to a swell pal. Norma Hutzenbuecker

Dear Kent,

There's so much I could say but not in here. I've had fun at our four years at Iquinas. And I think I'm sort of going to miss the place. But not if I see some of the kids once in a while. Like you? Yes I said can't say much in here so will just wish you lots of luck.

Katie Henke

Dear Kent,

Only study hall together this year. and what a class that was.

Loads of luck.

Madeline.

P.S. Why don't you take care of Kate yourself?

Dear Kent,

Remember all the stuff you and I thought of doing but never got around to it. Say that night of the Oyster was that nice.

Lots of luck. remember Spanish and all other classes.

Jim "Louie" Lewis

Dear Kent,
Don't want to have at the store. Don't forget English. Best of luck in the
Marcella (Babe) Randall

Dear Kent,
Great things about St. Joe new with them. I think Pledge - they were all about you in farming. I find of letch in your eye for just in case you find yourself without a job.
Well, we have two farmers and we have been a little help but so be good - knowing they are good - even playing shuffleboard!

Dear Kent,
It looks like everyone has gotten your name right
so far. Loads of luck to 8th period lit. student.
Arlene Parker

Dear Kent,
Remember all the times you were called Lawrence? Well, we're period lit? Well, we're all finished with all this grand new. Best of luck. Collette Ritter

Dear Kent,
Always remember Dinerroom and 8th period English. More fun. Ha! Loads of luck to a sweet fellow.
Mona Schwenkel

Some people seem to be able to go on and on in one of these things but
I don't know what to say.
Thanks for getting me to school on time some days.
Good luck.

Dear Kent
Well folks I made it.
By you sure wheel
the school bus and thanks for the ride in
it. Lots of luck and
loy to you in coming years
